The Hip Hop Nutcracker

The Hip Hop Nutcracker is a remixed and reimagined version of the ballet classic. This contemporary dance spectacle smashes hip hop dance and Tchaikovsky’s timeless Nutcracker Suite into a heart-stirring and inspirational holiday event.

Join Maria-Clara and the Nutcracker Prince on a dream adventure as they battle a gang of mice, visit the Land of Sweets and learn the lessons of the holiday season. Innovative digital graffiti and visuals transform the landscape of E.T.A. Hoffmann’s beloved story from 19th-century Germany to the vibrant, diverse sights and sounds of contemporary New York City.

The Hip Hop Nutcracker virtual presentation is a recording of a performance filmed at the New Jersey Performing Arts Center. The production was directed, and choreographed by Jennifer Weber, who co-created it with Mike Fitelson. It featured a powerhouse cast of dancers, DJ Boo, violinist Claudius Agrippa and a special guest appearance by MC Kurtis Blow. The recording was presented by PBS All Arts and NJPAC. The Hip Hop Nutcracker is an original NJPAC production.

About NJPAC On the Mic
NJPAC On the Mic is an audio resource that takes SchoolTime performances to the next level. This podcast series features three exclusive, curriculum-aligned episodes for all of NJPAC’s 2022-2023 SchoolTime performances. On the Mic offers students the opportunity to engage their listening skills, deepen their understanding of the performance and learn about the process of bringing a live or recorded production to life. This immersive audio experience features a theme song by students in the NJPAC arts education program.

Inspired Ideas in the Classroom

<tr>
<td>P Prepare for the performance</td>
<td>Before the performance, provide some context on how The Hip Hop Nutcracker combines hip hop dance with the traditional Nutcracker ballet. If you have: 5 minutes: Talk to students about audience behavior and etiquette. 15 minutes: Play this video about the meaning and history of hip hop. There are other videos on YouTube that you could use to introduce hip hop dance, but it is important to trace its roots to Black culture, and specifically mention that it is inspired by African dance. Then show this video as an introduction to The Nutcracker. 25 minutes: In addition to both videos above, share the following video which demonstrates hip hop and ballet together. 45 minutes: Do all of the above in addition to having students participate in a beginner hip hop lesson. Teachers can get involved too! It is a great way to demonstrate how moving outside of your comfort zone creates a space for growth.</td>
<td>Watch the videos that your teacher plays for you, and think about the following questions: 1. What about the videos resonated most with you? 2. Can you think of any hip hop dancers you have seen perform live or online? 3. What did you notice while watching the clip from The Nutcracker? How does the traditional Nutcracker compare to the hip hop dance you saw? 4. After participating in the hip hop lesson, how do you feel? What types of skills do you need to be a hip hop dancer?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E Experience the performance</td>
<td>As students watch the performance, encourage them to notice the movements that the dancers are making with their bodies, how it connects to the music (or doesn’t) and how the dancers’ movements might be used to express certain feelings.</td>
<td>As you watch the performance, put on your artist exploration hats and think about the following: 1. What emotions are you experiencing as you watch the performance? (i.e., joy, sorrow, excitement, fear, hope, surprise, empathy, etc.) 2. In what ways do the dancers’ movements portray a specific emotion or action?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R Reflect, respond and read</td>
<td>Ask students to reflect on the performance they just saw, and discuss their observations as a class. Encourage students to think about how the performance made them feel, and how the movements they witnessed by the dancers related to their own hip hop dance movements in class.</td>
<td>Take a moment to reflect on the performance you just saw. Discuss your observations with the class. Consider the following when reflecting: 1. Did the dancers’ movements look easy or difficult? Why might a dancer make what they do look easy? 2. How did the dancers’ movements 3. Have you ever combined different materials to create something new? Do you know of any other art forms (like hip hop and ballet) that have been combined to create something unique? 4. What are the benefits of thinking “outside the box” when it comes to art?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F Focus</td>
<td>Play the short interview with The Hip Hop Nutcracker’s director and choreographer Jennifer Weber about the inspiration for bringing hip hop and ballet together. Then, follow this link to explore two types of world maps as a class: The Mercator Projection and the AuthaGraph. Students can use the Venn Diagram to compare and contrast the two types of maps.</td>
<td>Watch the interview with The Hip Hop Nutcracker’s director and choreographer Jennifer Weber. Afterwards, discuss the following with the class: 1. What places (real or imaginary) does The Hip Hop Nutcracker take us to? How do you know? 2. During the performance, were there any clues from the dancers and their movements about where they were?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>O Originate</td>
<td>The Hip Hop Nutcracker is about a dream, so students’ approach to this performance can be dreamlike in nature. The dream could be fantastic, or based on a dream students have for the world (i.e., Black Lives Matter, LGBTQ rights, environmental justice, etc.). Make sure students avoid stereotypes and caricatures when creating their piece. Have students focus on the following performance elements when creating their piece: Actions: Practice different types of movement that relate to the topic they chose (i.e., jumping, turning, open/closed movements, rising/sinking, stretching/folding, etc.) Energy: Practice movements that portray an element of the story or an emotion (i.e., strong or gentle movements, heavy or light movements, bound or free movements). Additional resources on the elements of dance can be found here.</td>
<td>With a group, begin to brainstorm your own dance performance. Use the following prompts to help form your ideas: 1. What style of dance will you perform? 2. What message do you want to send through this performance? 3. How do you want your audience to feel when they watch you perform? 4. What styles of movements will you do in order to convey the story or theme? If you’re in need of more inspiration, check out this hip hop dance guide.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R Rehearse</td>
<td>Give your students time to rehearse their presentations. Encourage them to use music or other audio if they desire. Have the students rehearse for another group and provide constructive feedback. Explain to students that their presentations do not have to be literal but represent the overall theme of their story. Rehearse your presentation with your group, and then find another group to rehearse for. Take turns giving and receiving constructive feedback on your performances by making a list of five things that are going well, and five things that can be improved. Make revisions as needed.</td>
<td>Rehearse your presentation with your group, and then find another group to rehearse for. Take turns giving and receiving constructive feedback on your performances by making a list of five things that are going well, and five things that can be improved. Make revisions as needed.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M Make magic</td>
<td>Give students a deadline by which to finish their presentations. Create a designated space in your room where the performances can take place. Remind students of proper performance and audience etiquette. If time allows, create a rubric for the performance so students can self-assess. Invite other classes and administrators to see the student performances. Get ready to step into the spotlight! Present your performance to the class, and ask the audience for feedback afterwards. Self-assess your performance according to the criteria that the class created.</td>

1.1.5.Pr4b
Perform planned and improvised movement sequences with increasing complexity in the use of time/rhythm by accurately transferring rhythmic patterns from the auditory to the kinesthetic and responding immediately to tempo changes.

1.1.5.Pr4c
Perform planned and improvised movement sequences and dance combinations applying a variety of dynamics and energy (e.g., fast/slow, sharp/smooth, strong/gentle, tight/loose.)

1.1.5.Pr5b
Recall joint actions, articulations and basic anatomical terms (e.g., muscles, bones, tendons, ligaments) as they relate to dance and apply basic kinesthetic principles (e.g., flexion/extension, inward/outward rotation). Track how basic body organs (e.g., lungs, heart, brain) respond to different intensities of dance movement.

1.1.5.Pr6a
Perform planned and improvised movement sequences with increasing complexity in the use of space. Establish relationships with other dancers, increasing spatial awareness and design (e.g., diverse pathways, levels, patterns, focus, near/far).

1.1.5.Pr6b
Rehearse a dance to improve group awareness, union movement, consistency, and attention to detail.

1.1.5.Pr6c
Dance for and with others in formal and informal settings. Identify and modify the main areas of a performance space and body movements using production terminology (e.g., stage left, stage right, center stage, upstage, downstage).

1.1.5.Re7a
Describe recurring patterns of movement and their relationships to the meaning of the dance.

1.1.5.Re7b
Compare and contrast qualities and characteristics to another dance genre or culture. Use basic dance terminology and elements of dance to describe the qualities and characteristics.

1.1.5.Re8a
Interpret meaning or intent in a dance or phrase based on its movements. Explain how the movements communicate the main idea of the dance using basic dance terminology.

6.1.5.GeoSV.4
Use a variety of geographic representations to describe the similarities and differences between places in New Jersey, the United States and the world (e.g., maps, data visualizations, graphs, diagrams, aerial and other photographs, GPS).
Vocabulary

Battle
A competition in which dancers, usually in an open circle surrounded by their competitors, dance their routines, whether improvised (freestyle) or planned. Participants vary in numbers, ranging from one-on-ones to battles of opposing breaking crews, or teams. Winners are determined by outside judges, often with prize money.

Breaking
Breakingdance

Choreography
The particular combinations of steps in a ballet or dance performance created by the choreographer.

Classical ballet
A traditional style of ballet that relies on dance fundamentals and established academic techniques that have evolved during the dance form’s history; it has a rigorous, precise and yet flowing aesthetic with formalized movement of the legs, arms and head.

Cypher
Open forum, mock exhibitions. Similar to battles, but less emphasis on competition.

Djing
The art of the disk jockey.

Enceeeing
A style of rapping that uses pre-written or freestyle rhyming verses to introduce the DJ or excite the crowd.

Freestyle:
An improvised, old-school dance routine.

Graffiti
A type of artwork that incorporates scratched, scrawled or painted images and lettering; usually on buildings, trains, etc.

Hip Hop
A lifestyle comprised of four elements: breaking, emceeing, DJing and graffiti. Major influences stem from the original breaking crews in the Bronx during the 1980s. Footwear and clothing play a role in hip hop style — sneakers with flat soles like Nike, Adidas, Puma and Converse optimize fast footwork; caps and other padding are often worn to protect the head during spins and baggy pants are worn for ease of movement.

New School hip hop dance
Newer forms of hip hop music or dance (house, krumping, voguing, street jazz) that emerged in the 1990s.

Old School hip hop dance
Original forms of hip hop music or dance (breaking, popping and locking) that evolved in the ’70s and ’80s.
